Moodle - Learning Management System
An introductory Faculty Development Workshop

26th April 2024
MEU Room, 2nd Floor Library Block
9am to 3.30pm

Medical Education Unit and
Department of Physiology

University College of Medical Sciences and
GTB Hospital, Delhi-95

Summary report

Learning Management System is becoming a felt need under the Competency Based Medical Education. It has also been suggested by the National Medical Commission in the CBME 2023 document. The Medical Education Unit along with the Department of Physiology organised a faculty development program to begin sensitization of the UCMS and GTBH Faculty regarding Moodle - the open source LMS. In all, 21 faculty members participated in this workshop. Dr Shilpi Goyal (Assoc Prof, Physiology) was the lead facilitator of the workshop along with Prof Farah Khaliq (Head, Dept of Physiology). Prof Khan Amir Maroof (Coordinator, MEU) coordinated the event. E-certificates were provided to the participants.

Feedback summary

The average satisfaction score was 4.8 on a scale of 1 (highly unsatisfactory) to 5 (highly satisfactory). Mean confidence level score in using Moodle was 2.23 before the workshop and 4.4 after the workshop on a scale of 1 (highly unconfident) to 5 (highly confident). The participants appreciated the interactions, the hands-on activities, the group discussions, the sufficient time given for each activity. The participants also requested to conduct more such workshops in future as a reinforcement strategy as well as to learn newer aspects of this tool. We asked the participants as to in which month they would conduct a similar workshop for the teaching personnel of their respective departments. To this, around half of the participants mentioned July, whereas one fourth mentioned May and a similar proportion mentioned August 2024.

By the time of writing this report, one of the participants of the workshop Dr Subhra Sahoo, Asstt Prof, Biochemistry dept, after attending this workshop, conducted a similar workshop for the teaching personnel of Biochemistry department.
